US Keeps Constant Vigil for Weapons Commies Have Had At Least 15 Years

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Communists have had germ weapons for at least 15 years, according to their own claims, but so far have not dared use them, even in their Korean aggression.

A close and constant watch is maintained by United States biological warfare experts on the battlefield and rear areas in Korea.

To date, there has been no evidence that the Reds either have used or have in the Korean War zone the equipment for bacteriological warfare (BW), a spokesman for Defense Department scientists said today.

He disclosed, in answer to a reporter's question, that a report of a suspected bacteriological warfare plant in North Korea had proved unfounded. He said this was what happened:

As United Nations forces pushed into North Korea in the offensive of late 1950 a report was received by headquarters that a laboratory was in the Pyongyang area.

Alert to a possible attempt by Russia's satellite forces to make a battlefield test of BW, American authorities dispatched airborne troops to seize the building.

At the same time, biological experts were flown from U.S. headquarters in Tokyo to the scene.

They found that it was indeed a laboratory of sorts—but that it was used only for public health and disease control. Nothing was found in the equipment or biological materials which could be used in offensive germ warfare.

The spokesman said up to now no other evidence has been found of any immediate Communist preparation to use germ warfare in Korea.

Why haven't the Communists resorted to microbe warfare?

The answer, top American military men say, is that the United States is prepared to strike back with the same weapon in overwhelming power.

Secretary of Defense Robert Lovett pointed this up recently. In a news conference he denounced Communist charges that the United States had used both BW and toxic gas weapons in Korea as "abominable, malicious falsehood."

He added that the Communist technique usually has been to charge someone else in advance with a crime the Communists propose to commit.

Lovett left no doubt that the United States was ready to meet that kind of game. Behind his words stands a big BW laboratory plant in Maryland and a BW proving ground in Utah.

To back up information obviously gleaned from other sources showing that the Kremlin started preparation for germ warfare long speeches by Soviet officials.

Among them is one made on Feb. 22, 1938, by Marshal Voroshilov, at that time Commissar of Defense.

Voroshilov said if toxic or bacterial weapons were used against the USSR "we are prepared and fully prepared to use them also and to use them against aggressors on their own soil."

American officials are wary of telling what is known of Soviet preparations for BW because it would endanger intelligence sources and lives of agents.

But there have been some hints from other sources. The newspaper Die Tat of Zurich, Switzerland, carried an article last March on the Communist charges of biological warfare in Korea. Die Tat said:

"A Russian expert who succeeded three years ago in escaping to Great Britain states with all due care that at Eupatoria (near Baku) at Bjerzinsk and Onsk, centers of bacteriological research have been established under the leadership of Professor Worenin."

The United States has refrained from ratifying an agreement in which Russia is involved which would pledge non-use of toxic gases and bacteriological weapons.

First Alley Square Dance Proves Fun for Neighbors

The first alley square dance was held Saturday night when the music blared out from record players and a group of square dancers stepped it off down the stretch of sidewalk in the alley behind the home of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Anderson, in the 900 block on West Fifth.

The party was planned with some misgivings about how the neighbors would take it—but the neighbors enjoyed it to the fullest. It wasn't an annoyance, it was entertainment and right down their alley, too.

The alley was lighted and as the square dancers started swinging their partners the crowd of watchers kept growing. Not only the neighbors, but a few cars of passers-by stopped and joined in the fun of watching the dancers whirl.

Decker Case Trial Will Open Tuesday

Mrs. Henderson, Widow of Murder Victim, Is Charged

The trial of Mrs. Genevieve Decker Henderson, charged with first degree murder, will begin in the Saline County Circuit Court at Marshall Tuesday before Judge Phil Cook.

She is charged in connection with the death of her former husband, Theodore Decker, who was found stabbed to death at his grocery store, 1115 East Fifth early the morning of Nov. 6, 1947.

Acting Prosecuting Attorney Harold Bamberg today said he will be assisted in the prosecution by Brady Duncan, assistant state attorney from the office of State Attorney General J. E. "Buck" Taylor.

Duncan is no stranger in this area, having assisted former Prosecuting Attorney L. J. Harned in the prosecution of Edgar Holland, serving a life sentence for the murder of his wife.

The death of Decker has been under investigation since he was found lying in a small kitchen of his grocery store, died from three stab wounds through his heart. It was not until Dec. 27, 1949 that charges were finally filed in the case against the former widow.

At the time of the death, Dr. K. L. Holdren, then coroner, said it was "possible, but highly improbable" that Decker committed suicide. A butcher knife was found beside the body.

Investigations had been under way by former Chief of Police Anson Finnell, later by Chief of Police Edgar Neighbors, Sheriff John Taylor and the State Highway Patrol.

Since the filing of the charges, the case was continued several times and taken to Saline county on a change of venue. Mrs. Henderson has been at Liberty under a $10,000 bond.

Fred F. Wesner is defending Mrs. Henderson in the case.

The new terms were expected, however, to make it easier for many people to buy and sell houses, especially the more costly ones.

The Federal Reserve Board also granted easier terms to servicemen able to get mortgages guaranteed by the VA. This was in line with provisions of the Defense Production Act granting preferential treatment to veterans.

No down payments will be required on veterans housing costing $7,000 or less although closing or settlement—costs must be paid in cash.

The down payment for houses costing $25,000 or more and financed with a VA mortgage will be 35 per cent compared with the previous top of 45 per cent.

The easier terms apply to credit on houses for one to four families and apartment houses. No change was made in controls affecting non-residential properties, but the board said such a change is "still under consideration."

For apartment houses containing more than four family units, down payments will now range from 10 to 40 per cent against the previous ceiling of 17 to 50 per cent.

There were week end reports the Soviets were preparing to close three more zonal border crossings between East and West Germany. This would leave the Helmstedt-Berlin autobahn as Berlin's only supply route.

Allied officials said today, however, they could find no basis for these reports. Both road and rail traffic from West Germany to Berlin continued to flow normally.

But the Russians still evaded Allied attempts to force them into joint discussion of recent harassments.

Relax House Credit

Government Cuts Down Payments, Eases Restrictions On Home Buying

WASHINGTON (AP)—The government today relaxed its restrictions on how much you must pay down to buy a new house.

Under the new program, effective Wednesday, purchasers will be allowed to make down payments 20 to 50 per cent less than those now required under Regulation X, which has been in effect nearly two years.

On the least expensive houses, down payment requirements were cut in half. On the most expensive, they were reduced 20 per cent.

The relaxed controls program means that only five per cent will be needed in down payments on some houses and that the maximum required will be 40 per cent.

The action was announced today by the Federal Reserve Board. Here is what the board order will do:

1. On houses costing $7,000 or less, five per cent down payment will be required; it has been 10 per cent.

2. On houses costing $25,000 or more, 40 per cent will be required; it has been 50.

3. On houses between those figures, a sliding scale fixed requirements at a sum between 10 and 40 per cent of the sale price.

The order applies only to new housing, that is, private residences built since October, 1950, when Regulation X went into effect.

There were no controls on houses built before the effective date of Regulation X.

Time limits for paying off mortgage credits were not changed. The maximum period for paying off mortgages on houses costing less than $12,000 remains 25 years; on higher price properties, 20 years.

The only exception permits veterans to have a longer period if the Veterans Administration finds a shorter pay-off period would cause hardship.

With home construction already booming toward the mark of one million houses this year, a level topped only twice in the past, officials expressed doubt the easier terms would do much to stimulate construction.

The new terms were expected, however, to make it easier for many people to buy and sell houses, especially the more costly ones.

The Federal Reserve Board also granted easier terms to servicemen able to get mortgages guaranteed by the VA. This was in line with provisions of the Defense Production Act granting preferential treatment to veterans.

Ike Backers Challenge Naming Gen. MacArthur as Keynote

Eisenhower Forces Oppose Move by Taft Group to Have General Mac Make Speech At Convention Because He Backs Taft

CHICAGO (AP)—Supporters of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower challenged today a move by backers of Sen. Robert A. Taft to name Gen. Douglas MacArthur as Republican national convention keynote.

Russel Sprague, New York national committee member, told this reporter the Eisenhower forces are opposed to selection of MacArthur because he has publicly supported Taft in the pre-convention campaign.

At the same time, Walter Hallahan, West Virginia national committeeman, predicted the convention arrangements committee will name MacArthur to the post at a meeting tomorrow. Hallahan is a Taft supporter.

Sprague said the Eisenhower backers have no candidate for keynoter or temporary chairman of the convention.

"We are going to be definitely opposed to MacArthur," Sprague said. "We do not think anybody who has been particularly and vehemently active in supporting any candidate should be the keynoter. The selection of such a man would make it obvious to the public that he cannot be non-partisan."

Sprague conceded the Eisenhower forces will be outvoted in the arrangements committee by Taft backers.

"That doesn't make any difference to us, because we are fighting for a principle," Sprague declared.

The New York committeeman said that so far as he is concerned any of several prominent Republicans would be acceptable to him as keynoter.

House Passes Foreign Aid Bill

BULLETIN
WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate today passed and sent to President Truman a compromise bill authorizing $6,447,730,750 of mutual security aid in all parts of the world next year.

The roll call vote was 59 to 11.

In passing the measure, the Senate rejected a plea by Sen. Kem, R-Mo. to shunt it back into conference with the House. He wanted a tightened blockade of Communist nations restored in the measure.

The final version of the bill is $1,450,000,000 less than Mr. Truman asked for the foreign aid program in the fiscal year starting July 1.

Negotiators Near Steel Settlement Truman Announces

He Asks Senate to Delay Any Action On Strike Which Might Upset Plans Of Industry and Union Negotiations

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Truman told the Senate today negotiators may be on the verge of settling the steel strike. He asked that the lawmakers take no action which might upset the delicate negotiations.

In response to his plea, the Senate put off until tomorrow any further consideration of various proposals for legislative action related to the steel dispute.

In a letter to Vice President Barkley, Truman said any Senate action "could so alter the situation or the attitudes of the parties in this case so as to cause a breakdown in their negotiations."

Various proposals for legislative action related to the steel dispute are pending in the Senate as amendments to a bill to extend the government's wage-price controls program.

Truman told Barkley the negotiators may be "on the verge" of a settlement and that any action which interfered would be tragic.

The President's letter said: "I am informed that the Senate may take some action today with respect to the current dispute in the steel industry. If the Senate should do this, the results might be very harmful."

"The parties to the dispute are now negotiating for a settlement of the dispute. No one can be sure of the outcome of these negotiations. However, the parties on both sides appear to be earnestly seeking a settlement, and there is at least a reasonable hope that they will be successful—unless something is done on the outside to upset the present bargaining situation."

"Everyone must agree that a settlement by the parties is by far the best thing that could happen in the national interest. When we may be on the verge of achieving that, any action which prevented it would be tragic. In the present circumstances, any action by the Senate—even though it would not become applicable immediately or even though it might be only an expression of the Senate's views—could so alter the situation or the attitudes of the parties in this case as to cause a breakdown in their negotiations."

"I earnestly ask the Senate not to do this."

His letter went to the capitol.

WASHINGTON (AP)—An agreement running perhaps two years to mid-1954 appeared near today in the steel strike.

Negotiators representing the industry and striking CIO Steelworkers Union were reported on the verge of a compromise that would give the workers a boost in wages and other benefits worth about 22 cents an hour per man.

Reflecting the government optimism, President Truman sent a letter to the Senate saying "we may be on the verge" of a settlement. He pleaded that the Senate take no action in the dispute lest it "upset the present bargaining situation."

Several proposals aimed at the dispute are pending in the Senate as amendments to legislation to extend the wage-price controls program.

"Oh, they don't propose anymore", said the sweet young thing who was flashing a big diamond. Another girl who thought she was proposed to last December, and was given a ring after what she thought was a proposal, and then married the boy she thought proposed to her, turned red and laughed.

"But", continued the sweet young thing, "He had to ask papa"—so that hasn't changed—at least not in her family. The young man arrived while papa was at the supper table and waited for papa to get through and go in the front room—but papa was hungry—he kept helping himself to this and that and it seemed he was in the mood to eat all night. Then when he got up from the table he went to the basement instead of the living room as usual. He fooled around and fooled around there, and then in the kitchen, while the boy sat in the front room waiting and the girl began scaling off her nail polish until she finally had to go upstairs and take it off with nail polish remover.

Then papa walked through the front room and out the front door where he began mowing the lawn. The boy got up and walked out, stopping papa at his task of cutting grass long enough to ask for the hand of his daughter. The girl, upstairs, got her nail polish off, put on some lipstick and, being unable to stand the suspense any longer, went down stairs and outside. "It surely must be over by now", she thought—and it was—and she is still wearing the ring. The poor boy didn't have to ask the girl, but he had to ask papa—but papa, evidently, said "Yes".—H. L.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round King Committee Gingerly Probes Congressman Keough

By Drew Pearson

(Copyright, 1951, By The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

WASHINGTON — The King Committee, which has done a remarkably good job of probing tax frauds, is about to wind up its career on June 30. Before doing so, however, it has explored — very gingerly — the tax returns and business operations of one of its own members.

This is almost unheard of in Congress. Members of the House and Senate for the most part follow an unwritten rule that they do not pry into each other's business. Nonetheless, the King Committee has done some quiet probing of its own members — none other than Congressman Eugene Keough, a Democrat, who is elected from plebeian Brooklyn but lives on swank Park Avenue.

It happens that this columnist has kept a weather eye on Congressman Keough during the past two years and his record is interesting.

Keough was elected to Congress in 1938, but for 11 years he took no appreciable interest in Spain. His career in Congress featured a plan to send the Congressional Record to federal judges and to grant free postage to the armed forces. Not one speech did he make on Spain.

Then suddenly, after 11 silent years in Congress, Keough suddenly became the champion of Dictator Franco. He littered the Congressional Record with statements and editorials favorable to Spain. He interrupted congressional debates to defend Spain. He offered an amendment to include Spain in Marshall Plane handouts.

Franco Lobbyist

This began in 1949. It was in 1949 also that Congressman Keough was seen frequently in the company of Franco's lobbyist, amiable, likable Charles Patrick Clark, who now draws $100,000 annually from the Spanish embassy though in 1949 he drew only $50,000.

On Oct. 8, 1949, Congressman Keough paid a visit to Dictator Franco in Madrid in company with another Franco enthusiast, Sen. Owen Brewster of Maine. Lobbyist Charles Patrick Clark was in Madrid with them.

Traveling on a Spanish train that night, Congressman Keough was reported to have had $5,000 stolen, together with his pants, when he hung the pants too near a window in a sleeping car.

Prior to 1949, also, Congressman Keough opposed the Natural Gas lobby and voted against the Rizeley bill which would have hiked gas rates. The bill would have meant higher gas bills to the Brooklyn housewives who elected him, and he voted for the housewives.

But in 1949, Keough and Charley Clark, lobbyist for a gas pipe line company, as well as for Spain, had become friendly and Keough reversed himself. He not only followed the gas lobby's line during hearings in committee, but actually introduced two amendments which would have made the Kerr bill just as strong as the Rizeley bill which he had previously voted against.

After failing to strengthen the bill, and probably to protect himself with Brooklyn housewives, Keough finally voted "No" on final passage.

Fees For Tax Case

At about this time, Congressman Keough began to receive a number of checks from Lobbyist Charley Clark. They were listed as payments by Clark for legal advice on a tax case which the federal government had against Silas E. Chambers of Miami. The first check was dated March 6, 1950, for $1,500; another on March 24, 1950, was for $1,000; April 5, $500; May 3, $300 and June 15, $1,000.

The interesting thing was that Keough, as a member of Congress, had no business accepting a law fee in connection with a tax case. Such law practice against the federal government by a member of Congress is illegal.

In September, 1950, some months after the checks had "passed," I handed the information to the justice department, whereupon both Keough and Clark were quizzed by the FBI.

Immediately the congressman wrote a letter to Clark, dated Oct. 31, 1950, which appeared to be aimed at allying his transaction. It stated:

"I have given further consideration to the propriety of my continuing to act as advisor counsel. Therefore, if it meets with your approval, I should ask you to consider that our firm has withdrawn and consider that the fee which you previously paid us will be in full."

When the congressman and lobbyist Clark were interviewed by this column regarding the purpose of these fees, they told different stories.

According to Keough, Clark had merely dealt with his New York law firm, Halpin, Keough, and St. John, not with him. But when Clark was asked how Keough had earned these fees he explained that Keough had given very helpful advice.

"Then it was Keough who advised you on this case?" Clark was asked.

"Yes." A short time later, the King tax fraud committee of which Keough is a member, rightly reprimanded ex-Congressman Vincent Quinn of New York for taking fees in connection with tax cases while he was a member of Congress.

Lost His Pants "How did Keough happen to lose his pants in Spain?" I asked Clark.

"He hung 'em too near the window," Clark explained. "Someone pulled them out at a railroad station. But he only had $2,000 in his pocket — not $5,000 as reported in the press. They'd collected some money to pay for the importation of autos, and Keough was going down to the port to arrange for it."

Congressman Keough in turn was asked why he happened to support legislation which Lobbyist Clark was interested in.

"I don't think I should comment," he replied.

"Why have you made so many speeches favoring Spain?" Keough was asked.

"I don't think I've had much to say about Spain," he countered. Reminded that the Congressional Record was full of his speeches, he declined to comment.

Asked about the reversal of his position regarding, natural gas after Clark got into the picture, the congressman said he preferred not to go into the arguments of the gas legislation but he didn't see anything inconsistent in his position.

Questioned about the fees he had received from Clark's law firm in connection with the Silas Chambers tax matter, Keough at first replied that a lawyer's relations with his client are strictly private. Later he claimed — counter to what Clark said — that Clark's relations were with his law firm, not with him.

That is part of the record of a member of the King Committee now probing tax frauds. It will be interesting to see if the King members proceed with their investigation of their own member.

Israel Collects Enforced Loan From All Citizens

JERUSALEM — Israel today began skimming off 10 per cent of her population's bank deposits over 50 pounds ($140.50) and its currency holdings in large bills in a forced loan to strengthen the government budget.

To insure the loan's success, the Israel government called in all currency now in circulation and began issuing new banknotes.

Currency holders are given until June 23 to turn in their old notes—the Anglo-Palestine issue of August, 1948—for the new money. In making the exchange of all bills above one pound and half pound notes, the banks are deducting 10 per cent for the loan.

All bank deposits over 50 pounds also are being reduced 10 per cent. For the money taken, savings bonds bearing 4 per cent interest and maturing in 15 years are being issued.

Announcing the drastic measure last night, Finance Minister Eliezer Kaplan said the government expects to raise 25 million pounds ($70,250,000) to help out its development budget and give it ready cash.

Kaplan said the government plans to extend the compulsory loan to property owners.

Love Is Hard to Understand Sometimes, Isn't It?

Social Security to Peak Pay

By James Marlow

WASHINGTON (AP)—For many people 65 and older July 1 will be like the three o'clock school bell that let them out when they were kids.

After July 1 the social security pension reaches a new maximum of $80 a month. Many old people will retire then to collect.

Anyone now on pension or who retires before July 1 will never be entitled to the new maximum of $80.

The only ones who can get that much are those 65 or older who quit work after July 1 and fill the other requirements for getting the maximum. The present maximum is around $68.50.

There has been talk around the country that swarms of old people, now working, would quit after July 1. Social security people here say:

The number will jump for a couple of months and then return to normal.

Officials in charge of the government's manpower program don't expect the increased retirements after July 1 to affect the total manpower picture much.

In case you've forgotten the background on these social security pension changes, here it is: Congress increased social security benefits in the fall of 1950 when the minimum pension was $10 a month and the maximum about $45.

The increase was to be in two stages:

1. For those on pension or going on pension before July 1, 1952 the minimum was raised to $20 and the maximum to around $68.50.
2. Those going on pension after July 1, 1952 would never receive less than $20 and could, if entitled to it, receive as much as $80.

At the same time Congress laid down some rules for getting this $80 minimum:

If a person worked 18 months in a job covered by social security between Jan. 1, 1951 and July 1, 1952 and his pay was at the rate of $3,600 a year he could, by retiring after July 1, 1952, get $80 a month.

For this reason a lot of old people who might have retired sooner—but who then couldn't get more than $68.50—decided to keep on working until July 1.

All that's been said in this story so far applies only to people who have been employed by others in these past 18 months.

For the self-employed people there was a slightly different rule:

"To be entitled to the full $80 a month, a self-employed person must keep on working 'til next Jan. 1."

He could get some pension if he retired before Jan. 1, but not that new maximum of $80.

Gov. Fine of Penn. Still Open Minded About GOP Nominee

NEW YORK (AP)—Gov. John F. Kennedy, after a three-hour talk with Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, says he still has an open mind about Republican presidential hopefuls.

Fine adds that it may be some time before he reaches a decision, which presumably may guide 32 officially uncommitted delegates from his state to the GOP convention.

The governor and the general met here yesterday at the Eisenhower residence on the Columbia University campus. Eisenhower is on leave from his post as President of Columbia.

Test a Jet-Powered Seaplane for Navy

BALTIMORE (AP)—Tests are being conducted on a jet-powered seaplane which was developed from a World War II experimental craft, the Glenn L. Martin company and the Navy have announced.

The plane, known as the M270, is being taxed and flight-tested, the announcement said. The plane is not new. The lower portion of the hull of the former XP5M1 has been revamped and the craft now serves as a test model for future jet designs.

Death in the Sierras

By Doris Hudson Moss

Distributed by NEA Service, Inc.—Copyright by Western Family

My lights showed a black void to my left, evidently a great chasm or deep canyon.

DEKE ALVORD, city editor of the San Francisco Journal, rang for his society editor, which was me, at about 11 a. m. on Thursday, June 10.

"How'd you like a two-week rest, expenses paid, at Gold Lodge?" he asked in his crisp, booming voice. Before I could stammer a reply, he went on. "Here's a check to cover the trip. The quiet of the woods will do you good."

He never failed to astonish me. "I'll go with pleasure and thanks," I answered quickly.

He grinned and yanked open a top drawer of his desk and drew out a pistol. "Take this. A woman driving on a mountain road at night should be protected. You'll about make the high mountains by dark."

I laughed. "I'll take Susie. She's protection enough." Susie was my Belgian shepherd.

And so about 2:15 that afternoon we left the Bridge Toll Station, but at that moment a motorcycle officer came up beside me and motioned me to the side of the highway. He jotted down my license number and then said: "Where are you going?"

"Sacramento." "Your name?" "Rosemary Curtis."

He looked at me for a long moment. "Let me see your driver's license." I found it in my purse. He scanned the license I gave him. "You look like a girl named Elsie Martinson. Ever hear of her?"

I shook my head. "Okay. Have your brakes checked." And with another long look, he got on his motorcycle.

I had my car checked in Sacramento, where I ate dinner. The brakes were in good condition and so I set out for Gold Lake in the high Sierras early in the evening.

NIGHT came as Susie and I entered the pine-clad higher ranges. The road was deserted. Only one car had passed us and that was going in the other direction. I only saw that it was a green coupe, similar to mine, and driven by a woman.

Rounding a curve, I finally saw a feeble light hanging to a pole near a watering trough. Faintly I discerned a gasoline pump and my headlights shone on a sign: Horseshoe Springs.

I drew up and sounded the horn. A door opened a crack, sending a thin line of light across the dark earth. Someone peered out. "Who's there?" quavered the high-pitched voice of an old man.

"I'm a woman alone on my way to Gold Lake and I need some gasoline."

It seemed odd to find it necessary to explain myself. I was thankful for warm, furry Susie, who pressed guardingly against my shoulder.

Apparently reassured, the old man hobbled out, carrying an electric lantern.

He filled my tank. As I paid him he turned the light from the lantern upon me and as he counted the change into my hand he muttered almost inaudibly, "There's been a woman murdered a piece up the road. Better drive fast and don't stop."

As if in answer to his whispered warning, a rifle cracked and a bullet hit the rear right fender of my car. The old man sped to the shelter of the house. In terror I shot the car ahead into the blacker-than-ever night.

As I drove at a mad speed equal to the pounding of my heart, I tried to analyze what had happened. Obviously the rifle shot was meant for the old man who had whispered his warning to me. He said there had been a murder. How did he know about it?

Was the shot in the dark fired by a demented fiend who roamed the forest with his deadly rifle, shooting at any living thing?

I PRESSED the accelerator down dangerously as we tore around those mountain curves. My lights showed a black void to my left, evidently a great chasm or deep canyon.

Then Susie leaned forward more than ever, while she continued to snarl and at that moment I thought I heard a faint crashing sound.

A half mile or so around a curve, probably but a short distance across the canyon from where I had heard the crash, the headlights shone on a small pine tree that lay across the highway ahead of me.

Enveloped in terror of what roamed the black night, I acted instinctively.

The smaller end of the tree lay on the down slope away from the highway. Its boughs stuck upwards and the small end of the tree, dangerously far over the sloping shoulder of the mountain.

My little car was equipped with oversize tires. Without stopping but by slowing perceptibly I went across the small end of the tree, dangerously far over the sloping shoulder of the mountain.

The car swayed down the hill, gave two sickeningly sudden thumps and wrenches as the wheels passed over the trunk and the boughs banged on the fenders and pan. I expected to find my self rolling into the canyon or with at least a broken axle but, oh, miracle, there was no metallic bumping and instead of sliding downward, the car was headed for the road.

I stepped on the gas once more, but as we bounded away I thought I saw a woman, wearing a long dark coat, standing by the roadside. It was but a flash but I was almost sure that a woman was really standing there by the road. But why?

I drove faster than good sense permitted and reached the closed gates of Gold Lodge at 9:15 o'clock.

I drew up and sounded my horn. A small building stood near the gates and its windows gleamed brightly with light. I found, afterwards, that it was the log-cabin home of the gatekeeper and was occupied by an old mountaineer, Jed Downey. He came out of the cabin and opened the squeaking, heavy log gates.

"Goin' up to the Lodge?" "Yes," I answered. "I have made reservations there."

He stuck his bearded old face into the window of the car, hesitated a brief moment as he said, "Be there trouble up the road apiece?"

"Why—I'm not sure," I replied. I didn't like his manner and, somehow, I dreaded to speak of what had happened.

AND then as I shifted the car into high I saw a woman standing behind an out-cropping of granite, away from the sight of the gatekeeper. I looked back but she was gone. I wondered if she had slipped through the gate behind my car while the old man was talking and if she could be the same woman who had stood by the felled tree. But that seemed impossible since I was miles from that spot. She was probably a member of his family.

I followed a meadow road and in a few moments I stopped before the door of Gold Lodge.

The proprietors of the resort were a Mr. and Mrs. Rodney James. Mrs. James offered me a late supper.

South Korea Urged to Halt Its Squabbles

PUSAN, Korea (AP) — The United Nations has urged the South Korean government to halt its political squabbles for 10 days to ease tensions in the U.N. said is threatening the republic with chaos.

The U.N. proposal was handed the government last night. It also suggested that President Syngman Rhee lift martial law from this temporary capital and release 11 national assemblymen held on charges of conspiracy against the government.

The U.N. Commission on the Unification and Rehabilitation of Korea is seeking solution to the crisis brought on by a quickening of the long feud between Rhee and a majority of the Assembly.

Rhee is demanding that the right to elect the President be taken from the Assembly and given to the people. He also wants a two-house Congress instead of the present unicameral Assembly.

A proposed constitutional amendment embodying Rhee's demands was beaten in the Assembly earlier this year, 1949.

Today, for the third time since Rhee declared martial law May 25, the Assembly tried to meet but failed to get together a required quorum of 92 members.

Many assemblymen have remained in hiding for fear of arrest by South Korean military police.

Prime Minister Chang Taik said today to negotiate a compromise between 52 pro-Rhee assemblymen and about 40 anti-Rhee lawmakers. His proposal was understood to contain Rhee's demands plus a proposal that the Assembly be empowered to approve cabinet appointments and hold votes of confidence on government policies.

Another plan under discussion would delay the presidential election from next week until mid-July.

Harold A. Bundy

Stricken with a heart attack in the 900 block on East 10th shortly before 9:30 p. m. Sunday, while on the way to his home, 905 South Montauk, Harold Arthur Bundy, 44, was pronounced dead on arrival at the Bothwell Hospital, where he had been rushed in the McLaughlin ambulance.

With Mrs. Bundy, he had attended the baseball game between the Schlitz Leaders and the Jefferson City Mid-State Printers at Center Park.

After leaving the park in their car, Mr. Bundy complained of his left arm giving him a little trouble. Mrs. Bundy told him she had better take the wheel and he seemed a little reluctant at the moment for her to do so, saying he had better drive until they ran through some heavy traffic. They crossed Engineer, headed west and in front of 923 East 10th, the car swung to the south side of the street and over curbing into some weeds. Mrs. Bundy says she immediately turned off the ignition. She realized he had not, as she had thought started pulling out of the center of the street to stop and shift positions with her. The car struck nothing and was not damaged.

Plane With 108 Brides, Children Flies to London

NEW YORK (AP) — A chartered plane with 108 passengers including 42 war brides, 65 children and a lone man-left for London last night.

A British Overseas Airways Corporation spokesman said the 108 were the greatest number of passengers the line ever has carried on a four-engine plane of the type used on the trip.

Most of the mothers were going to England on a visit. The plane was stocked with diapers, three cases of baby food and 45 pints of milk for the 15-hour trip.

Learning that he was the only male passenger, Frank Braun of Philadelphia, asked: "Do they have a bar on board?"

Told that the cocktail lounge of the double-decked plane had been converted into a nursery, he sadly asked: "Where the deuce do I go?"

The plane, chartered by Cosmopolitan Associates, an organization of war brides, normally would carry 75 passengers. The 108 were permitted because so many were small children.

Seek 'Blue Phantom' Again After He Fires On 13th Motorist

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — State police intensified their search today for the "Blue Phantom" gunman of the Illinois highways as the number of motorists fired upon in two weeks mounted to 13.

Two motorists reported yesterday they had been the targets of the mysterious gunman. Both escaped without injury.

The shootings, first reported two weeks ago, have been labeled the work of a "Blue Phantom" because most of the victims said they were fired upon by the occupant or occupants of a dark blue automobile.

Two of the 13 targets reported by state police suffered minor injuries from glass fragments of splintered windows.

The shootings have been reported as far north as Volo, in Lake County, to Belleville, near St. Louis. State police have set up roadblocks in Central Illinois and an airplane is on patrol duty over highways in an effort to snare the mysterious sniper.

Women End Full Year At St. Johns

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (P) — In the easy air of today's commencement, you'd think womanhood was an established institution around St. John's colonial Campus. But it wasn't always so.

From its founding 255 years ago this Great Books College had been strictly masculine until a year ago. It submitted to various circumstances, and last September the first 24 feminine voices echoed down its halls.

Despite the fears and mutterings in many beards, both grey and light peach, the college has changed little.

"Admitting women as students is still in the nature of an experiment," explains president Richard D. Weigle, a Yale man, "but it's been so successful this far that there is a frequent tendency to treat them as permanent."

The women have not asked for nor received—special treatment of any sort.

"We're no tender violets," says Janet G. Jenkins of Bethesda, Md. "Boys and girls together, we're all—to cop a term from Aristotle—simple featherless bipeds."

The girls generally agree that with their studies, there isn't much time for romance. Three of them were married before they enrolled, and one is a widow in her 40s. All are stepping from freshman to sophomore class, for St. John's accepts only beginning women students.

During the school year a controversy arose over dormitory regulations. The college had required a 2 a.m. curfew of all freshmen and did not permit visiting back and forth in dormitory rooms.

The women, living above the college dining hall, objected to this as much as the men. The result was a relaxing of the curfew and permitting visiting, as long as at least three persons were in the room.

Academically, the college won't be pinned down on how the women stack up.

"It's hard to tell yet," says Dean Jascha Klein. "This may be a better-than-average group. In any case, some are bright, some are dumb, just like all human beings."

The girls themselves wouldn't have it any other way. "At least a third of us had worked or gone to another college first," adds Miss Jenkins, a former Swarthmore girl. "We certainly prefer this approach. Formerly classroom emphasis was all on memory and competition. You took in, parrot-fashion, what the professor said. You fed it back to him in the exam."

"I simply think cooperation works out better. When other people share ideas with you, you get more ideas of your own."

The St. John's curriculum is based on the study of what it considers the great books of all time. They deal mainly with language, mathematics and science, with a dash of the arts. Discussion plays a major part in the system.

Use Sandpaper For Treating Disfigurements

By FRANK CAREY
Associated Press Science Reporter

CHICAGO (P)—Sandpaper offers an aid in treating various facial disfigurements, the American Medical Association was told today.

Dr. Claire L. Straith and several plastic surgery colleagues of Detroit said sandpapering of the skin—usually as a follow-up to surgery—offered help towards erasing pimple pits, pock marks, tattoos, cindermarks or carbon marks from explosions.

The doctors told of the technique in a scientific exhibit at the AMA's annual meeting, opening today for a week-long session with an expected attendance of some 15,000 of the nation's doctors.

The meeting constitutes organized medicine's "big show" and includes coast-to-coast telecasts of medical advances.

The Detroit surgeons said that in their sandpapering technique they sometimes used "coarse, sterile sandpaper rolled on a sterile bandage" and applied by hand—or a mechanically-operated emery stone.

In another exhibit Dr. R. R. Savers of the U.S. Public Health Service and several colleagues said many of the nation's children suffer from lead poisoning.

The most common cause of this lead-poisoning, they said appears to be the habit of chewing paint containing lead from cribs, toys, furniture, woodwork such as windowsills, and the eating of painted plaster and fallen paint flakes.

They recommended that no colors be used in refinishing articles of furniture intended for use by children "unless the pigment composition as declared on the label clearly excludes the presence of lead."

Repeat Performance Of His Funeral Causes Promise of Another

BURLINGTON, Colo. (P)—Jim Gernhart, 76, had a repeat performance of his funeral yesterday and promised a third annual service the first Sunday of June next year.

The retired farmer and storekeeper studied the front lawn audience of less than 100 disappointedly and commented:

"Guess I'll have to do something real spectacular for next year's services. Maybe I'll marry myself up to one of these women that have been writing me letters and coming to see me since my big funeral."

Gernhart held his first service which cost $15,000—and recorded it for use after death—because he said he neither wanted to be buried "like a dog" or leave much of his estimated $75,000 estate to relatives. He said he repeated the performance this year because he enjoyed the first service.

7th Fleet Can Cause Havoc for Invaders

KEELUNG, Formosa (Delayed) (P)—Vice Adm. Joseph J. Clark said today (June 8) the U.S. SEVENTH Fleet could "cause havoc with any Communist attempt to invade Formosa."

Clark said dangers of such an invasion were remote, but they would increase if an armistice were signed in Korea and the Reds moved their forces down the mainland from Korea.

Clark was asked at a news conference aboard his flagship if the Seventh Fleet would take up the challenge should the Reds bomb Formosa.

The admiral replied the fleet's orders were to defend Formosa "and we could take whatever steps are required within the limits of our capacity and considering the war we are fighting in Korea."

The practice of burial in churches or churchyards was unknown to the earliest Christians.

Dope Wave Sweeps Reich

HAMM, Germany (P)—A dope wave is sweeping West Germany for the first time in history.

Some 50,000 addicts have become the nightmare of health and security officials.

Officials of the "main office for combating drug dangers" in Hamm say the number of dope addicts has soared since the war.

Marihuana, virtually unknown before the war, is being smuggled into the country from abroad. It has become a favorite stimulant for many youths, artists and other Germans.

The federal interior ministry is organizing a narcotics bureau in an effort to control illegal trade in drugs and to fight smuggling.

Before the war 6,000 drug addicts were registered by the Reich's Health Ministry in Berlin. Seven thousand others were under medical treatment.

These figures now have tripled, officials said, but exact totals are not available since there is no compulsory registration of drug addicts.

Doctors and health officials blame the war and the disastrous postwar years for the new German lust for narcotics. Most of the illegal dope comes from abandoned Wehrmacht stocks, plundered after the retreat of German armies.

Marihuana, often mentioned as the most dangerous drug because it is inconspicuous, easy to use, comparatively cheap and easy to get, has been brought into the country by foreigners, sometimes occupation troops. Despite the stiff counter measures, especially by the American military authorities, the marihuana trade flourishes.

In recent months, German and Allied police have broken several dope rings in Western Germany.

By tight cooperation, drastic fines and jail sentences and a determined anti-narcotics campaign.

'Maniac,' Electric Brain for Atoms

LOS ALAMOS, N.M. (P)—The maniac at this atomic center solves problems that would drive a scientist crazy.

Maniac is the nickname for the latest thing in electronic brains designed by scientists to work out the intricate problems involved in atomic research.

The letters stand for "Mathematical Analyzer, Numerical Integrator and Computer." That mean's it's a sort of distant cousin to an adding machine.

It works along the same general lines—but much more complicated—as your radio or television set. It's designers, staff members of the University of California scientific laboratory, claim it works

Brown Tosses B-J Chiefs to 11-2 Win

Beat Boonville
Here Sunday, Stay
In Tie for Lead

Manager Bob Brown of the Sedalia Ban Johnsons Chiefs pitched his team to an 11 to 2 victory over the Boonville Lions at Liberty Park Sunday night. Brown allowed only four hits and struck out 11 to make it his first league win against the one defeat which was handed him by the Columbia Chevrolets.

The Chiefs are still at the top of the CEMO league, tied with the Mexico Ramblers. Both have a 3-1 record in league play. Mexico defeated Brookfield in ten innings last night by the score of 12 to 7.

The Sedalia nine started scoring in the first frame, getting two on a walk to Higgins, a two-bagger to Dey, scoring Higgins and a single by Holst to bring Dey home. Sedalia brought in another run in the fourth after two were out on Broadbuss singled and scored on Dey's single. Holst smashed one at the shortstop and reached first as an error was called. With the bases loaded, Wiest walked forcing Thomas home. Lane then cleaned the bases with a triple. Cochran walked and Broadbuss bounced to shortstop, forcing Cochran to end the inning.

The Lions' scoring came in the fifth and ninth as Gilliam, Lions' first baseman, tripled in the fifth and scored on a fielders choice. The Chiefs scored in the ninth on two walks, a hit and an error. Brown led the Chiefs' hitting attack with two out of four and Gilliam connected for two out of four for the Lions.

The Chiefs will play host to the strong Moberly club Thursday night as Bob Brown will be on the hill. The Sedalians will probably draw the Moberly ace, Ken Kellogg.

Manager Brown states there will be a light practice Wednesday night for the Chiefs.

Art Larsen Wins Hard Court Titles Again

SEATTLE (AP)—Art Larsen, the skittish showman from San Leandro, Calif., was well on his way up the comeback trail today after adding the National Hard Court Championships to his string of 1952 titles Sunday.

Herbie Flam, the steady Los Angelesan, was the straight set victim, getting little but blisters out of the match. He forced every set into extra games but was closed out 7-5, 8-6, 7-5.

Larsen then teamed with the veteran Tom Brown of San Francisco to whip Ed Talbot of New York and Harry Likas of San Francisco in the men's doubles finals, 5-7, 6-2, 6-4, 6-4.

Mary Prentiss, Los Angeles, also was a double winner, whipping Anita Kantner, Santa Monica, Calif., 6-1, 8-6, in the women's singles and teaming with Julia Sampson, San Francisco, to win the doubles title. The scores were 7-5, 6-2, against Miss Kantner and Patsy Heard, Portland, Ore.

Larsen was national champion in 1950 but lost his touch last year.

Little League In Action Tonight With Elks' Lead Being at Stake

Elks, only undefeated major team in the Little League, will be out tonight to keep that record unblemished and to remain atop the standings. At the same time Kiwanis and Jaycees will be out to move from their second place tie into a tie with the Elks for the top spot.

Only Rotary, with no win as yet, has no chance to share the top honors after tonight's contests.

Rotary meets Jaycees at 6:30 and the Elks taken the Kiwanis at 8 o'clock at Housel Park. Elks have won two while the Kiwanis and Jaycees have one and one records.

If the Kiwanis can defeat the Elks and Jaycees the Rotary league will be in a three-way tie, but if the Elks win and the Rotary win the Elks will finish the first round of play with a 3 and 0 record to the others 1 and 2 records.

All Because of Bases on Balls—

BoSox In First, Yanks Go Up To 2nd; Indians Drop to 3rd

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Oh, those bases on balls!

Boston's Red Sox were the new occupants of first place in the American League today. The New York Yankees jumped from third to second and Cleveland plummeted from first to third. All three clubs could charge it to the pitcher's pet peeve—the free ticket to first.

Thanks to the walks, only 3 percentage points separated the three teams after Sunday's activities which saw the Red Sox sweep a pair from Detroit by 5-2 margins; the Yankees take two from the St. Louis Browns 5-2 and 3-0; and the Indians drop two to the Philadelphia Athletics, 12-4 and 11-3. The double win moved the A's into sixth place.

This is how the American League pennant race looked today:

Boston is in first place with 28 wins and 20 losses tating .583 per cent; New York second with 25 wins and 18 losses, .511; Cleveland third with 29 victories and 21 defeats, .580.

In sharp contrast, the National League race is developing into a hare and hound race with the Brooklyn Dodgers piling farther away every day.

The high-flying Boks captured a pair from Cincinnati, 11-7 and 10-4, to increase their first place margin to four and half games over the runner-up New York Giants, who pummed three Pittsburgh pitchers for 9-1 triumph.

The St. Louis Cardinals moved past the Reds into fourth place with a 5-3 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies and the third place Chicago Cubs split with Boston. The Braves squeezed out a 7-6 win after the Cubs lagged a 7-5 first game decision in the American League's only agile affair, the Chicago White Sox won their fifth straight at Griffith Stadium with a 6-3 verdict against Washington.

Now for those peferous passes Sam Jones, Cleveland rightshander, started things off when he walked Elmer Veto with two bases loaded in the first inning account for the A's first run. To rookie Indian rightshander walked in two innings before giving way to Steve Gromek in the third of the opener.

Bob Feller was even worse in the nightcap. The Cleveland dandy walked seven less than an inning as the A's off to a 5-0 lead and breezed to their double triumph. In all, the A's drew a total of 21 passes on nine Cleveland hurlers.

Tommy Byrne of the Browns caused his own downfall at the hands of his former Yankee teammates. He walked seven batters, three of whom tried to account for the winner's first game margin.

Three walks to Brownie errors and a single by McDougald, gave the Yankees three runs in the first innig. Bob Kuzava, relieving starter Jim McDonald with the bases full and nobody out in the first, tossed a six-hitter to register his first victory.

Stubby Overmyer, making his first start for the Browns, walked only two in the nightcap, but one base on balls was turned into a run. The free pass was sandwiched between McDougald's second inning triple, a pass ball and Billy Martin's single for two runs. Vic Raschi yielded the singles for his fifth win.

Boston drew four walks off loser Bill Wright but no was turned into runs. Bases 4 balls didn't figure in the Red Sox second game win either as the Yawrs clubbed 25 hits in the twin bil.

Manager Richards expects to use most of his players in this game to size up the strength of his team. All Legion players are requested to be at the park by 6:30 p. m. to receive new ball caps.

Neither manager has announced a lineup.

Rookie Travels Lots, Now With Third Team

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rookie outfielder Archie Wilson is traveling quite a bit in his first regular season in the major leagues.

Wilson began the season with the New York Yankees. May 3 was traded to Washington in a six player deal.

The 28-year-old ballhawk hardly had time to take in all the sights in Washington when he was traded again yesterday to the Boston Red Sox for outfielder Ken Wood.

Musial Gets Hot And Cards Move With Him, Win

By The Associated Press

Stan (The Man) Musial is rolling again and so are the St. Louis Cardinals, now back in the first division of the National League.

Musial, the $80,000 a year hired hand of Cardinal owner Fred Saigh has been in the batting doldrums. Musial has slammed out seven hits in his last three games, coming up with three yesterday on four trips to the platter. One was a home run with two on in the first inning. That helped the Cardinals to a 5-to-3 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies at St. Louis' Sportsman's Park.

All of the Philadelphia scores came on home runs, one by Connie Ryan in the third inning, another by Del Ennis in the fourth and the third by Granny Hamner in the sixth. The Phils hit seven homers in all in the three-game series, Hamner getting one in each game.

All three of yesterday's Philly four-baggers were off rookie Willyard Schmidt who gave up only one other hit, a single, in the six innings he pitched.

Browns Drop Two
The St. Louis Browns proved again a double-header is too much for them. They lost both ends yesterday at New York against the Yanks. The Yanks won the first, 5-2, despite Tommy Byrnes' two-hitter and came back for the second, 3-to-0. So the Browns still have their first doubleheader to win.

Byrnes' pitching exhibition was marred by seven walks by him and five errors by his mates.

Vic Raschi struck out 13 Browns in the second game and didn't let one of them reach second until the ninth inning.

Sauer Tops All-Star Baseball Poll Voting
CHICAGO (AP)—The Chicago Cubs' Hank Sauer, National League batting leader, topped the all-star baseball poll in first tabulations today as the most popular vote-getter.

Fans throughout the nation began voting for their starting lineup selections in the National and American Leagues for the all-star game at Philadelphia July 8. The balloting will continue until midnight June 27 with prospect of four million votes being cast.

Outfielder Stan Musial of the St. Louis Cardinals, most popular player in the 1951 poll, was second to Sauer.

Schlitz Down Jeff City In Tight, 7 Hitter

Chuck Branson buried the Schlitz Leaders to a 3 to 1 win over the Mid-State Printing soft ball team of Jefferson City at the Center Park diamond Sunday night.

Branson gave up three hits to the visitors, and Hilgert, the loser, allowed but three to the Leaders in the six innings he worked. Poutletz relieved in the seventh for Jeff City and pitched one-hit ball the last three frames.

The Leaders scored in the second inning, getting the jump on the losers, but were tied in the fourth on a home run by Wohet. The Sedalians scored again in the bottom of the fourth and added another in the sixth as they were led by the hitting of Paul Evans, who collected two of the four hits.

Tuesday night at the Center Park diamond the Leaders will pay the Emma Merchants in a Central Mo. League game.

The Leaders have a league record of four wins against one loss and a season record of seven wins and four losses.

Grass Silage Demonstration Day, June 16, at John Ryan Farm

SIGHTS SUCH AS THESE will be common during the grass silage and pasture tour at John Ryan's June 16. The above picture is of a truck of grass silage that has been unloaded into a trench silo. The lower picture is of Melvin Turner pulling a wagon load of silage into the same silo. The pictures were taken during the large demonstration at Turners May 19. A sling on the floor of the wagon or truck is used to drag out the silage which is very heavy.

The truck holds about four tons of silage and the wagon around 2½ tons. When the forage is at least half grass no preservative is needed to prevent spoilage. When using direct cut or "cutter bar" machines the operations should not be started too early in the morning as the dew will cause the moisture to be too high.

Both wagons, regular trucks, like this one, and dump trucks will be used at Ryan's. During the pasture tour the machines will be shut down and the wagons and trucks will be used to haul spectators on a tour of the pastures.

Two separate meetings will be held, one starting at 8:30 o'clock and the other one at 1 p.m.

See Pasture Operations In Full Force

"As grassland or pasture farming becomes common, interest will increase in using this feed in the winter when pasturage is not available," says Roy I. Coplen, county extension agent.

In announcing the Grass Silage Demonstration Day June 16, the agent points out surplus feed from improved pastures can better be used in May and June in the form of silage rather than hay due to poor haying weather in these months.

This demonstration day will be on the John Ryan farm three miles north east of Sedalia. Anyone attending is assured of seeing action and of hearing worth while discussion.

PROGRAM ANNOUNCED

From 8:30 a. m. to 10 a. m. and from 1 p. m. to 2:30 p. m. five forage harvesters will be chopping oats suitable for silage. Some of these machines will cut and chop. Others will pick the cut oats up from windrows and chop it.

At 10 a. m. and at 2:30 p. m. the machines will shut down and two specialists from the extension Service will speak briefly. Cliff Meeker, extension specialist in agriculture economics, will speak on the pasture phase of balanced farming. Sam Rowe, extension specialist in livestock, will discuss preservatives, time of silage, crops suitable for silage, moisture and cutting length of silage.

At 10:45 a. m. and at 3:15 p. m. a tour of inspection of three pastures will be made where bromegrass and ladino, orchard grass and ladino, and fescue and ladino will be seen. On this trip, William J. Murphy, extension specialist in field crops, will outline the essential steps in producing large quantities of high quality of feed per acre through pasture.

This program is being made possible by the assistance of farm machinery dealers of Sedalia in cooperation with the County Extension Service. Two similar programs are being offered so that you need only be present either in the morning or in the afternoon.

and parked near the silo, which is out in the pasture. The outfield, where most of the silage will be obtained, is just across the fence.

After you have watched the various machines operate a while all of them will be shut down and the silage wagons will be used to transport the crowd to the three pastures. Each pasture has been treated to needs as shown by soil tests and then seeded to one of the recommended pasture mixtures.

Specialists Discuss Practices

Several men on the state extension staff will assist with the meeting. Since this is a Balanced Farming demonstration, we will have C. R. Meeker, extension economist, here to tell the women how the carrying out of recommended practices, such as the improved pastures Mr. Ryan has here, can help you get the things you need in your home. William J. (Bill) Murphy, extension specialist in field crops, will also be here to comment on the pastures you will see that day and urge you to prepare the improved pasture you intend to seed this year, in late summer.

By late summer we mean so it can be seeded by Aug. 15 (State Fair Week).

Since this is a beef cattle farm we will have Sam Rowe, extension animal husbandman, on hand to comment on the use of grass silage for beef cattle. Sam will probably also tell of some of the gains that have been obtained over the state on these improved pastures. At Columbia June 2 we saw a nine acre field of fescue and ladino that had been pastured with seven steers since April 17. In that time the steers had gained slightly more than four pounds per head per

Can Vaccinate Pullets 2 Ways For Fowl Pox

Fowl pox is one disease that we can vaccinate against. And if properly done, vaccination provides immunity for the life of the bird.

Pullets should be vaccinated when eight to twelve weeks of age. If birds are vaccinated under eight weeks of age they may not develop good immunity. If the job of vaccination is delayed until the birds are more than twelve weeks of age, they may be slower in coming into production.

Care of the vaccine is important. Instructions that come with the vaccine should be followed carefully; otherwise, the vaccine may become ineffective. Fowl pox vaccine loses its potency quite rapidly after it is diluted. Therefore, it is advisable to mix the vaccine in amounts that will be used within one hour or two. In addition, it is well to destroy any diluted vaccine that is not used within a short period.

There are several methods of using the vaccine. Most companies supply a needle type applicator with the vaccine. This type of applicator is used in vaccinating the birds in the web of the wing. Another method of vaccinating for fowl pox is generally referred to as the feather follicle method. The procedure followed with this method is to pull out some of the feathers on the outside of the thigh. The vaccine is then applied with a small brush to three or four of the feather follicle openings.

A week or ten days after vaccination has been effective, there will be a thickening or pox at the point where the vaccination was made.

University of Missouri veterinarians suggest that you wait three weeks after vaccinating pullets for fowl pox before vaccinating for some other disease. If you move the birds to range at about eight to nine weeks of age, that would be the logical time to vaccinate for fowl pox.

Then when the birds are three to three and one-half months old, the wing-web Newcastle vaccination could be given satisfactorily.

Order No. 205 Seed Oats Now

On this tour we also had the opportunity to see the new oat, No. 205, in action. While slightly later than Columbia and 0-200 it gives every indication of being the "outstanding" oat of the midwest for several years to come.

Now, here is the problem. Some out of state seed houses are attempting to move or less "coarse" seed supply which at present is very limited. They had representatives in our office weeks ago trying to find what farmers in Pettis County had some seed. I understand they are contracting it for $3 per bushel.

If you want some of this seed, contact the extension office and we will try to tell you where you can find it. And let me say again—if you want some No. 205, better order now.

5 New Terrace Outlets

I spent several hours recently looking over the water management work that Dan Robinson and Charlie Feaback recently hired a terracing contractor to do. Their farm, located seven miles south east of Sedalia, is owned by Robinson and operated by Feaback.

The above work included five new terrace outlets, seeding two more outlets started in 1951 and building a mile of terraces. At least a mile of terraces were built in two fields on the farm last year and both fields were seeded last fall to improved pastures.

Extension Club of the Week

Oak Point Club, Since 1940, Has Been Providing Education, Fun for Members

By Mrs. Claude A. Crole, Historian

The Oak Point Extension Club has, since 1940, been one of Pettis County's Extension Clubs.

It was voted at a meeting by 12 or more members of the U & I Club to join the Pettis County Extension Clubs.

U & I had been organized in the Oak Point Community three years previous to the date when it was changed to an extension club and the name was also changed to the present one. This was a time for "election of officers" and Mrs. Arlie Nutt was made the first president of the new club. Mrs. Nutt has since moved from Oak Point as has Mrs. C. A. Lane, who was the only president of the U & I Club.

Mrs. W. C. Heffelfinger became the club's second president and Mrs. Norman Gibson the third and present president.

Other officers and members of Oak Point Club are: Mrs. Donald Arnett, vice president; Mrs. Ralph Minor, secretary-treasurer; Mrs. Claude Crole, reporter, who has so been during the 15 years of the life of the two clubs with the exception of a short time when Mrs. C. A. Lane was reporter before she left the locality; Mrs. Marion Minor, parliamentarian; Mrs. Charles Sparks, song leader; Mrs. T. H. Gibson, game leader; Mrs. H. E. Gerken; Mrs. Otto Tegtmeyer; Mrs. Tom Conaway and Mrs. R. Crosswhite.

Five home agents have served in Pettis County during the years since Oak Point joined the extension. They are the former Misses Dorothy Bacon and Esther Dilaver, who are now married, Miss Alice Mae Alexander, Miss Lillian Watkins and Miss Mae Everett.

Training meetings in various phases of home economics given by the agents and their assistant are practical and interesting.

Leaders of the different projects, who are chosen by the club to attend the training meetings, bring back information they obtained to an enthusiastic group. This information pertains to homemaking, usually in step saving hints, clothing selection and construction, food preparation and nutrition, family relations, public policy, beautifying the home and other subjects.

There is a general turn out on Achievement Day when this comes once a year and all the county's extension clubs exhibit and compare work on the many projects that have been selected. Awards of achievement are given to clubs that have achieved in home duties and other duties outside the home. Oak Point can boast of such an award for each year of its existence.

The club donates each year to various charities such as cancer, polio, Red Cross, tuberculosis, crippled children, Mercy Hospital and many others. As a means to establish a fund to help support and finance the different charities members serve sale dinners and prepare threshers' dinners. They donate much of the food needed for such affairs by going to their own refrigerators and deep freeze or to their pantry shelves or food cellars, as the case may be.

The club invites the non-club members of the PTA to assist in donations and help with the sale dinners and divide the proceeds to be used for hot lunches at the school.

The dramatics club has prepared and presented a play for the county's contest for several years to make the affair more festive. For their efforts they have received first award, also third and special mention for good acting by several of the cast even when women impersonated men. Our own Mrs. Ralph Minor, a grandmother, was made an honorary member of the national dramatic fraternity a few years ago for good acting.

The community is invited to help celebrate holidays when there is fun and feasting.

Once a year the members assemble for a day of recreation when home duties are left behind, by making previous preparations, of course, so no one will suffer during their absence. On one such occasion the group visited our state capitol, and by an invitation from the first lady we viewed the interior of the governor's mansion. A dinner was enjoyed at the Old Missouri Homestead. Twice the day was spent at the American Royal. Members with their husbands had the privilege of attending the "Passion Play." For all these attractions the entire expenses were paid from the club fund which is collected in the manner previously mentioned. I know of no other club where everything is free.

I know of no other club where I'd rather be.

The last of the year's activities is the Christmas party where the hostess has prepared a lighted look back over the events of the evergreen tree which signifies the everliving Lord and the light of His countenance. The tree is decorated with gifts for adults and children, as this is the day of an exchange of gifts. Secret Pals are revealed, names are drawn for gifts from those whose identity will be disclosed at Christmas a year hence. At this climax, we hostess has prepared a lighted look back over the events of the year and say "It was good."

Balanced Farming Notes--

At Least 5 Silage Harvesters To Work Ryan Farm June 16

By Merle Vaughan

To date five local machinery dealers have given assurance that they will put grass silage harvesters in the field at John Ryan's June 16. The meeting will continue all day, but duplicate programs will be held in the morning and afternoon. Folk coming either in the morning or afternoon can see everything in a half day. Machines we have been assured will be in action include New Holland, Gehl, Case, Fox and John Deere.

Also Balanced Farming Meeting

This meeting at Ryan's will take the place of the County Balanced Farm field day or Balanced Farming tour that have been held in Pettis County in alternating years previously. Mr. Ryan has at least seven terrace outlets on his farm and over 175 acres terraced. Several of the fields are equipped with good ponds and he plans to build one in a 50 acre field this year.

We are sorry that nothing specific has been planned for the ladies, but the Ryan home was already modern when John joined the Balanced Farming Association and, added to that, Mrs. Ryan will be visiting out of the state at the time of the meeting.

Ladies Can Ride to See Pastures

Official Canvass Shows Taft Wins S.D. by 613 Votes

SIoux FALLS, S.D., June 7.—Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio got 613 more votes than Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower in last Tuesday's South Dakota presidential primary, a county canvass showed Saturday.

A state canvass, probably late this week, could alter the totals, reported as 64,617 for Taft and 64,004 for Eisenhower. The unofficial count had given Taft 223 more votes; Eisenhower 16.

If the state canvass confirms the county totals, Taft can officially pocket all 14 of South Dakota's delegates to the national GOP convention next month.

Based on the county figures, Taft won 50,241 per cent of the total; Eisenhower 49,759 per cent.

A week before the voting, editors of South Dakota's daily newspapers, surveyed by the AP, forecast 51.2 of the vote would go to Taft; 48.8 to Eisenhower.

Sen. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee polled 22,663 votes against 11,614 for Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota, the county canvass showed. Kefauver got 66,117 per cent; Humphrey 33,882. The editors had predicted Kefauver would get 56.3 per cent in the voting for eight Democratic delegates.

To Break Up Compounds In Small Units

KOJE ISLAND, Korea (U.S. paratroopers used flame throwers, tanks and tear gas today in a second dress rehearsal for the imminent breakup of Koj's 17 prisoner-of-war compounds into smaller units.

Sullen Communists in Compound 76 watched the maneuver from their barbed wire enclosure—criss-crossed by chest-high trenches the Reds dug yesterday. Dispersal of Koj's 80,000 riotous POWs into more manageable 500-man compounds will be Brig. Gen. Haydon L. Boatner's main blow toward gaining uncontested control over the prisoner pens. Present stockades have POW populations up to 6,000.

Date for the start of "operation breakup" has not been announced. But its imminence was underscored by the second setting up of rehearsals in front of Compound 76, which with adjoining compounds 77 and 78 probably will be divided first.

The three compounds are the most unruly on the island. Prisoners in each have dug trenches around buildings and tents in compound 76 where the former camp commander, Brig. Gen. (now Colonel) Francis Dodd, was held hostage 78 hours last month—there was feverish activity in the blacksmith shop.

Allied officers speculated that the clicking and hammering of metal meant prisoners were fashioning crude weapons.

Brig. Gen. Thomas J. H. Trapnell, commander of the 18th Airborne Regimental Combat Team, personally directed today's maneuvers.

Two battalions in full combat dress stormed into an unoccupied stockade across the road from Compound 76 and herded imaginary prisoners into the center of the enclosure for movement to new quarters.

Two tanks crunched a long, concrete barracks as if it were paper. Then flame throwers went into action and sprayed the rubble.

Some of the POWs in 76 sneezed. Some Allied officers doubted the prisoners will resist the move. Boatner has let it be known that he will meet resistance with force.

Boatner apparently will use only American troops for the dispersal of the first three compounds.

Engineers continued digging around compound 66 for possible escape tunnels but in four days have found no evidence of any.

Brig. Gen. Edward Cavallaro last night has arrived in Pusan to take over the Second Logistical Command from Brig. Gen. Paul F. Yount.

The Logistical Command has under its jurisdiction the U.N. POW camp on Koj. Yount was reprimanded by the Army after the kidnapping of Dodd for not detecting the implications in a letter written by Brig. Gen. Charles Colson to the POWs to gain Dodd's release.

Yount's new assignment was not disclosed but he had been scheduled for a routine transfer late this month to Washington.

This is the first announcement for a sensational new, triple combination for the relief of arthritis, rheumatic, neuritis, sciatic pain.

Triple combination — there has never before been anything like it—nothing that could possibly hope to give such relief and comfort to those who suffer—nothing that could offer such promise for a more nearly normal, pain-free, health-building sleep at night.

Triple combination includes:
1. America's No. 1 anti-arthritis medication—plus

Commies Call Jailed Leaders To Deny Charges Made In US

WASHINGTON (U.S. Communist party today called on some of its imprisoned and indicted leaders to dispute under oath the government's charge that American Reds take their orders from Moscow.

John Gates former editor of the Daily Worker, was summoned from a federal penitentiary to be the party's first witness at a resumed Communist registration hearing before the Subversive Activities Control Board.

Gates is serving a five-year term in Atlanta prison as a result of

214 Acres Of Improved Pasture Here

Forty-nine Pettis county farmers planned to seed 356 acres of improved permanent pasture this spring with assistance offered under the 1952 Agriculture Conservation Program, reports James A. Harvey, local PMA chairman. To date, reports received at the county PMA office indicate that 214 acres have been seeded — all reports have not been received and in some instances these farmers were unable to make their seeding this spring but will so during the fall seeding season.

Harvey urges all farmers who have already been approved for assistance on fall seedings of improved permanent pasture to make plans for early preparation of the seed bed and keep it worked to retain moisture and retard weed growth until seeding time. If no crop is now planted on the plot, this would be a good time to get it plowed after the rock phosphate has been applied if plans include the use of rock phosphate.

After plowing, the limestone may be applied and worked into the soil as the seed bed is prepared. Doing this job now, and spreading these materials at this time, will prove most satisfactory as vendors are not to busy at this time of year and will be more able to make delivery just when the material is desired.

If small grain is now growing on the field intended to be seeded to pasture this fall, Harvey urges that the preparation of the seed bed be started on such fields directly after the small grain is harvested. It is the experience of farmers in Pettis county who have seeded such pastures in previous years that early preparation of seed bed and early fall seedings provide better stands which will survive the winter months and produce more feed for the following spring.

These are also the recommendations from careful studies and experiments by soil and crop specialists.

Farmers who are planning to make fall seedings of pasture and desire assistance under the 1952 ACP but have not yet made their application for assistance at the county PMA office should contact the county committee during this month or early in July to work out their needs and the specifications of carrying out the practice to be eligible for assistance under ACP, states Harvey.

8th Army Set To Meet Any Red Offensive

SEOUL, Korea (U.S. Gen. James A. Van Fleet said today the U.S. Eighth Army is ready, alert and fit to meet any Red offensive in Korea.

The commander of the United Nations fighting machine said its morale "is high—almost to a point of wishing the enemy would attack."

"The Eighth Army is ready, alert and fit to meet any offensive which the enemy may foolishly decide to launch," Van Fleet told a news conference. "That efforts would be defeated."

The general said the Eighth Army's supplies, particularly ammunition, are in good condition.

He has said several times the Reds in Korea have built up their artillery until they have more guns available than the United Nations.

U. S. military authorities have estimated the Communist potential striking force is approximately a million men, about 500 tanks and self-propelled guns, and 1,800 planes.

North Korean Gen. Nam Il, top Communist delegate at the Panmunjom armistice talks, recently warned that the Red army would not stand idly by while the United Nations Command "slaughters" prisoners of war on Koj Island.

Officers in charge of the U.N. prison camps island have blamed violence there solely on Red PWs.

Ground and air action continued to pick up slightly on the Western Front.

U. N. defenders again Monday beat off Chinese who have been trying since Saturday to win back a hill position they lost west of Chorwon.

Four Allied patrols fought long actions Sunday night and Monday morning northwest of Yonchon, south of Chorwon.

An Allied unit on the Central Front reported killing 32 Reds Monday in the Pukhan River area.

U. S. Air Force and Marine pilots concentrated on close support strikes Sunday night. Ten B26s dropped bomb loads on Red troops and Red front line installations.

Nine U. S. B29 Superforts Sunday night dropped 90 tons of high explosives on the Sonchon rail bridge.
